PASSENGERS SWEPT INTO SEA BY WAVE

Mad Panic Following Call for Lifeboat Fatal-But Few Escape.

The report from Jarachine, which is said to come from survivors, says that not more than a dozen succeeded in fighting their way into the lifeboat.

This report says that some of the survivors claimed that a second boat was launched and manned but the majority of the dozen who landed at Point Jarachine declare that only one boat got away. If this is so the loss of life will be somewhere between eighty and ninety.

The Chirlqui, which was bound for Callao. Peru, was equipped with wireless, but the terrific force of the explosion and the sinking of the vessel made it impossible for the vessel to even send out a "S. O. S" call. Ships Scour Seas.

In hopes that the rumor of a second lifeboat, putting off from the ship may be true, vessels were sent from several ports in the Canal Zone to search the ocean for further survivors today.

The Chirlqui departed from Panama on September 27. The first alarm was felt at Buena Ventura, when the vessel became several days overdue.

The company's agent at that point sent another ship in search of the Chiriqui, but she has not reported since.

The Chiriqui was well known in Southern and Central American waters. She was built by Wigham, Richardson and Company, of Newcastle, England, in 1896, She entered the trade shortly after her construction, and plied between Panama and other coast perts.

and other coast ports.

The vessel was of steel construction and of modern architecture. The gross tonnage of the glup was 643. She was 185 feet long and of 31 feet beam.

GIRL BRINGS TO U.S. TWENTY-ONE BOYS

Tufer, a young Viennese girl, is due credit for having brought to the United States twenty-one sober and industrious citizens within the past six years. These citizens are the twenty-one brothers of Miss Tufer, for whom, one by one, she has arranged passage to America, since she first ventured to COLON. Panama, Oct. 4.—Seventy persons perished when the Pacific Steam Navigation Company's steamer Chiriqui plunged to the bottom of the ocean following the explosion of her boilers, ninety miles from Panama, according to advices received here boday from Jarachine.

The Chiriqui was being driven under high pressure in the endeavor to make up lost time, this report states, when her boilers exploded.

It was late in the afternoon of September 27 and the vessel was making top speed through a calm sea when, without warning, a terrific explosion shook her from stem to stern hurling everything movable about the decks.

The passengers and members of the crew, about 100 in all, were thrown into a panic and a terrific fight took place around one of the life boats which a few cooler members of the crew, about 100 in all, were throw into a panic and a terrific fight took places around one of the life boats which a few cooler members of the crew, about 100 in all, were thrown into a panic and a terrific fight took places around one of the life boats which a few cooler members of the crew, about 100 in all, were thrown into a panic and a terrific fight took places around one of the life boats which a few cooler members of the crew, about 100 in all, were thrown into a panic and a terrific fight took places around one of the life boats which a few cooler members of the crew, under orders from the officers, immediately started to launch.

Swept Overboard.

Before this boat could be lifted over the side the stern of the vessel lifted and the bow began to sink, the water rapidly creeping up the deck. At least half of the frenzied mob was swept overboard by a huge wave in the struggle.

He also urged that some system be devised whereby the true value of commercial paper might be learned by banks before purchasing it in the market.

For Currency Reforms.

In the matter of currency reforms, Pierson favored the European custom, preventing the control of banks from passing into the hands of a few, by giving each stockholder but one vote, no matter how much stock the shareholder held. This, he thought, would prevent political or speculative control of banks, would insure better management and would keep undesirable men out of official positions in banks.

He urged many technical changes in the manner of reserve, rediscounting, and currency issues, and demanded of Congress a proper revision of the backing and currency system.
